Spiritual Notes:

In Genesis, God establishes a covenant with Noah and his family and, by extension, all future humanity. It is a covenant of promise: "never again shall all bodily creatures be destroyed." This covenant binds God and creation and is symbolized by the bow in the sky. For the ancients, this bow, reminiscent of a hunter's bow, is a sign of God's promise to sustain life even in the face of sin. In First Peter, we are reminded that Christ suffered for sins... that He might lead you to God. Jesus's suffering reconciles us with God. The writer goes on to say that Jesus went to preach to the spirits in prison, who had been disobedient... in the days of Noah. This ties in with the ancient belief that between the time of His death and resurrection, Jesus "descended into hell" which the Catechism of the Catholic Church interprets as "Christ went down to the realm of the dead. He opened heaven's gates for the just who had gone before him." Mark's presentation of Jesus's temptation is minimal, as was his description of Jesus's baptism. For Mark, these two episodes provide a transition to Jesus's public ministry. He does not narrate individual temptations, as we find in Matthew and Luke, but tells us that Jesus "remained in the desert for forty days, tempted by Satan." Perhaps Mark does not detail the temptations because his Gospel contains many other encounters between Jesus and the devil, beginning with the exorcism in the Capernaum synagogue several verses later. What Mark's text emphasizes is that though Jesus was threatened "among wild beasts," He was protected by angels "ministered to Him." This serves as a reminder to us that God watches over us as well.

For reflection: Do I understand Jesus's temptation to be a "once-in-a-lifetime" event or something happened more than once? How does this shape my understanding of Jesus and temptation?

In Our Parish

Cemetery Cleanup: Cemetery workers will be removing wintertime decorations from the graves beginning March 10th. We request that anyone wishing to retain personal keepsakes, to please remove them by March 8th. There will be a meeting on Sunday, March 1st at 12:30 p.m. in the church for anyone wishing to be trained as a Eucharistic Minister designated to take Holy Communion to the homebound and infirmed. This meeting is specifically for those willing to distribute the Eucharist to anyone unable to attend Mass. If you are currently taking Communion to the Sick and have not been trained, you should attend this meeting. If you are already a Eucharistic Minister who takes the Eucharist to the sick or homebound, and have been trained, you do not need to attend. If you have any questions, please contact the Parish Office.

Divine Mercy

Psalm 51 tells us much about mercy. It is called the Miserere because it begins with the invocation "Have mercy," which in Latin is Miserere. King David, admitting that he has sinned, appeals to God for merciful forgiveness. He prays to God saying, "Have mercy on me, O God, in your goodness; in the greatness of your compassion wipe out my offense. Thoroughly wash me from my guilt and of my sin cleanse me." This verse reveals to us that as a beginning, we must admit that we have sinned, are in need of God's mercy, and ask for His forgiveness. One of the condemned, hanging on the cross next to Jesus, much like David, admitted his sin and appealed to Jesus' mercy. What was Jesus' response?

Notas Espirituales:

En Génesis Dios establece un pacto con Noé y su familia y, por extensión, de toda la humanidad futura. Es un pacto de la promesa: "no volverán las aguas del diluvio a destruir la vida." Este pacto se une a Dios y la creación, y es simbolizado por el arco iris en el cielo. Para los antiguos, este arco iris, que recuerda a la proa de un cazador, es un signo de la promesa de Dios para sostener la vida, incluso en la cara del pecado. En Primera de Pedro nos recuerda que "Cristo sufrió por los pecados..." que te puede llevar a Dios." El escritor continúa diciendo que Jesús "fue a predicar a los espíritus encarcelados, que habían sido desobedientes... en los días de Noé." Esta enlaza con la antigua creencia de que durante el momento de su muerte y resurrección, Jesús "descendió a los infiernos," que el Catecismo de la Iglesia Católica interpreta como "Cristo descendió al reino de los muertos. Abrió las puertas del cielo para los justos que han pasado delante de él." La presentación de Marcos de la tentación de Jesús es mínima, al igual que su descripción del bautismo de Jesús. Para Marcos, estos dos episodios proporcionan una transición a la vida pública de Jesús. Él no narra las tentaciones individuales, como encontramos en Mateo y Lucas, pero nos dice que Jesús "se quedó en el desierto cuarenta días, siendo tentado por Satanás." Quizás Marcos no detalla las tentaciones porque su Evangelio contiene muchos otros encuentros entre Jesús y el diablo, comenzando con el exorcismo en la sinagoga de Cafarnaúm varios versículos más adelante. Lo que el texto de Marcos enfatiza es que aunque Jesús fue amenazado "entre las bestias salvajes," estaba protegido: "los ángeles le servían." Esto sirve como un recordatorio para nosotros que Dios vela por nosotros también.

Para reflexionar: ¿Entiendo la tentación de Jesús para ser una sola vez en toda la vida o algo que sucedió más de una vez? ¿Cómo afecta esto a dar forma a mi comprensión de Jesús y de la tentación?
