Spiritual Notes:

Ezekiel's vision of the dry bones serves as a message of hope for the people in exile. God intends to renew them and bring them back to the land of Israel. The Israelites in exile feel as though they are dead, but in the vision God promises to put my spirit in you that you may live. God intends to give new life to a broken people: I have promised, and I will do it. This scene is one of the few Old Testament texts that foreshadow the promise of resurrection and the fit of eternal life. Paul reminds the Romans and us that since God's Spirit dwells in us, God will give life to our mortal bodies. Christ's resurrection foreshadows our own sharing in eternal life. There is no condemnation for those who are in Christ Jesus, he says earlier; we are in the spirit and that spirit will bring us life. The raising of Lazarus is the seventh sign or miracle performed by Jesus in John's Gospel. As a sign, it shows us that Jesus has power over death. Raising Lazarus from the dead, Jesus foreshadowed His own resurrection: John's readers would see the connection. Jesus assures Martha, Your brother will rise, but she thinks this will happen on the last day, a common belief in contemporary Judaism. But Jesus has something else in mind. Whoever believes in me, even if he dies, will live. Lazarus will rise today, but he is not resurrected; he is restored to his old life. John refers to him as the dead man who comes out of the tomb tied hand and foot with burial bands, unlike Jesus, who will leave His burial cloths behind because He has passed from death to life. The new life of the risen Christ is God's promise to each of us.

For reflection: Have I experienced being brought back to life by God? How does my belief in the resurrection help me face personal loss in my life?

Please keep in your prayers, Nancy Giument, age 77 who died on Wednesday, March 15, 2017, and Richard Figuly, age 85, who died on Saturday, March 25, 2017. May their souls and all the souls of our faithful departed rest in peace. Please also, keep their families in your prayers.

Lenten Reflections

Divine Mercy: In the second temptation Satan cites Psalm 91:11-12, about dashing the foot against a stone. Jesus responds by quoting Deuteronomy 6:16, "You shall not put the LORD your God to the test." The Hebrews rebelled against Moses which became rebellion against God. They put God to the test. (Ex 17:1-7). They demanded that God prove Himself God. Satan is testing Jesus about whether Jesus is the Messiah who is to come, the Son of the living God. The whole question of how we can know God and how we cannot know God, of how man is related to God and how he can lose God, confronts us here. Jesus did not jump from the pinnacle of the Temple and put God to the test. He did allow Himself to be nailed to the cross, descend into death, abandonment, and the desolation of those who are helpless. Jesus trusted that He could only fall into the loving embrace of the Father. When we in faith obey God's will, we know that, in all the horrors we may experience, we will not lose a final refuge. We know that God is love and we can continue to walk in confidence toward the One who loves us.

You may begin to return your Rice Bowls on Holy Thursday. There will be baskets at each of the entrances. Thank you for your generosity.

Notas Espirituales:

La visión de Ezequiel de los huesos secos sirve como un mensaje de esperanza para el pueblo en el exilio. Dios tiene la intención de renovar y traerlos "de nuevo a la tierra de Israel." Los israelitas en el exilio se sienten como si estuvieran muertos, pero en la visión Dios promete "Pondré mi Espíritu en vosotros para que vivan," Dios tiene la intención de dar nueva vida a un quebrantado pueblo: "Lo he prometido, y lo haré." Esta escena es uno de los pocos textos del Antiguo Testamento que prefigura la promesa de la resurrección y el don de vida eterna. Pablo recuerda a los romanos y a nosotros que ya que el Espíritu de Dios habita en nosotros, Dios "dará vida a (nuestros) cuerpos mortales." La resurrección de Cristo prefigura nuestra propia participación en la vida eterna. "No hay condenación para los que están en Cristo Jesús," dice antes que; "estamos en el espíritu," y el espíritu nos dará a traer vida. La resurrección de Lázaro es el "signo" séptimo o milagro hecho por Jesús en el Evangelio de Juan. Como signo, nos muestra que Jesús tiene poder sobre la muerte. Resucitando a Lázaro de entre los muertos, Jesús anuncia su propia resurrección; lectores de Juan verían la conexión. Jesús asegura a Marta, "Tu hermano resucitará," pero ella piensa que esto va a suceder "en el último día," una creencia común en el judaísmo contemporáneo. Pero Jesús tiene algo más en mente. "El que cree en mí, aunque muera, vivirá." Lázaro se levantará hoy, pero él no es resucitado, él es restaurado a su antigua vida. Juan se refiere a él como "el muerto," que sale de la tumba "atado de pies y manos con vendas funerarias," a diferencia de Jesús, que dejará sus vendas en el suelo detrás de él, porque ha pasado de la muerte a la vida. La vida nueva de Cristo resucitado es la promesa de Dios a cada uno de nosotros.

Para reflexionar: ¿Alguna vez he experimentado "ser devuelto a la vida" por Dios? ¿Cómo me ayuda mi creencia en la resurrección a enfrentar la pérdida personal en mi vida?

Por favor, recuerde en su oración, a todos los enfermos, al salir de casa, y la recuperación de nuestra parroquia. Además, orar por aquellos que sufren de condiciones físicas o mentales.
