Spiritual Notes:

Mount Horeb is another name for Mount Sinai, the Mountain of God. Elijah's experience of the presence of God on this mountain recalls Moses' encounter with God in the same place. But they are very different experiences. While Moses' meetings with God involve storms, earthquakes and fire, Elijah experiences the Lord in "a tiny whispering sound." Elijah's experience teaches us that sometimes God's self-manifestation is not what we would expect. Paul tells the Romans that the Jews, "my kindred according to the flesh," are the recipients of God's continuing grace "from them... according to the flesh, is the Christ." God's promise to Abraham, that God would bless the nations through Abraham's descendants is realized in Jesus. Matthew's telling of Jesus walking on water has the added episode of Peter attempting to walk on water. This is unique to Matthew, who emphasizes the role of Peter in his Gospel. Jesus walking on water serves as a theophany, revealing His identity as God. Matthew tells us that after Jesus got into the boat and the sea calmed down, the disciples did Him homage, saying "Truly, you are the Son of God." The fact that some of the disciples were fisherman and even they were frightened by the storm, heightens the storm's intensity, which in turn heightens the sense of Jesus' power. But the episode of Peter walking on water adds another dimension to the story: the importance of faith. Peter begins to walk on the sea, but then becoming frightened, he starts to sink. Jesus calls him "you of little faith" and asks why he doubted. In this text, God is revealed not in the wind and sea but as the one who, more powerful than the forces of nature, can save us.

For reflection: Is my experience with God more like that of Moses or Elijah? When has God enabled me to walk on water?

Notas Espirituales:

En Isaías, el Señor invita a los hambrientos y los sedientos a comer y beber, incluso "los que no tienen dinero." Dios los invita a un banquete, anticipando el banquete mesiánico en el fin de los tiempos. Esta preocupación por las personas es un aspecto de la "alianza eterna" Dios hizo con David. Este pacto se extiende el amor y la misericordia de Dios a todos los pueblos. Isaías llama a su pueblo a ser el medio a través del cual otros vendrán a compartir en el pacto de las bendiciones de Dios.

Pablo les dice a los romanos que nada "podrá separarnos /del amor de Dios en Cristo Jesús." Debido a esto es capaz de experimentar todo tipo de pruebas, incluida la cárcel, a sabiendas de que "en todas estas cosas vencemos... / por medio de aquel que nos amó." Incluso los poderes espirituales - ángeles, principados, - no tienen poder sobre nosotros porque Dios está con nosotros.

El relato de la multiplicación de los panes, que se encuentran en los cuatro Evangelios, anuncia la Eucaristía. Mateo nos dice que Jesús "se retiró en una barca a un lugar desierto," pero aún así no puede evitar las multitudes. Este lugar solitario definido recuerda el desierto en el Éxodo, cuando Moisés y el pueblo recibió el don del maná. La preocupación de los discípulos por el hambre de la multitud se ilustra en su pedido de que Jesús "Despide a la gente para que puedan ir... / y comprar comida." Pero Jesús tiene otra idea: "denles de comer ustedes mismos." Su intención es involucrarlos en la milagrosa alimentación de la multitud. Y así, después de bendecir y romper los panes y los peces, les da a los discípulos, " que a su vez les dieron a las multitudes." Este es un recordatorio de que a veces la Obra de Dios requiere de nuestros pies y manos para alcanzar a otros.

Para la reflexión: ¿Cómo es que Dios me llama a participar en la obra de alimentar a los que tienen hambre de la presencia de Dios? ¿Cómo puedo usar mis manos y los pies para hacer avanzar la obra de Dios en el mundo?
